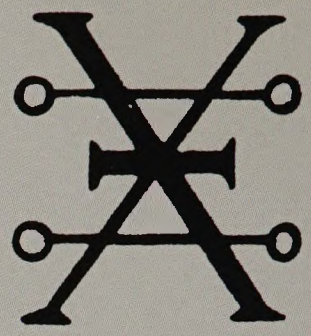
ALCHEMY

Since the beginning of time, man has tried endlessly to control the elements of the earth; the composition of matter, the warmth of the heavens, the fruits of fields, the health of his fellow man. Inspired by greed, fame, and fortune, prehistoric dreamseekers tried for centuries on end to produce gold from lead, rains from cloudless skies, or the cure-all panacea, incorporating demons and wizardry into the foundations of their alchemy. Today, we have dispensed with such practices, or have we? Have the fusion of the atom, the transmission of the microwave, and even the mixing of a cocktail become our 20th century substitutes? Yes, as we examine ourselves a little more clearly it appears that there is a little alchemist in all of us here at ACP. So let us step back and recapture the thrill of our hidden ancestry as we look back upon five years of grinding and testing and extracting and purifying our way through this mystical wonder we've come to know as the Albany College of Pharmacy.

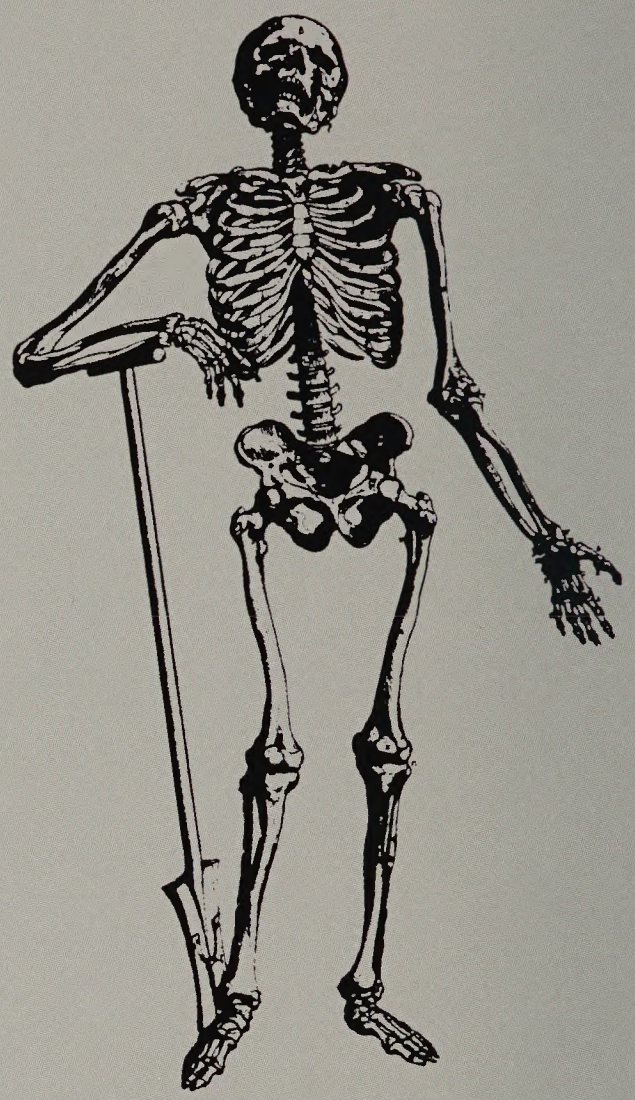
As the mad scientist in us comes out with the first free run of the laboratory . . .

. . . we start to relive the pain and ecstasy of our ancient past.

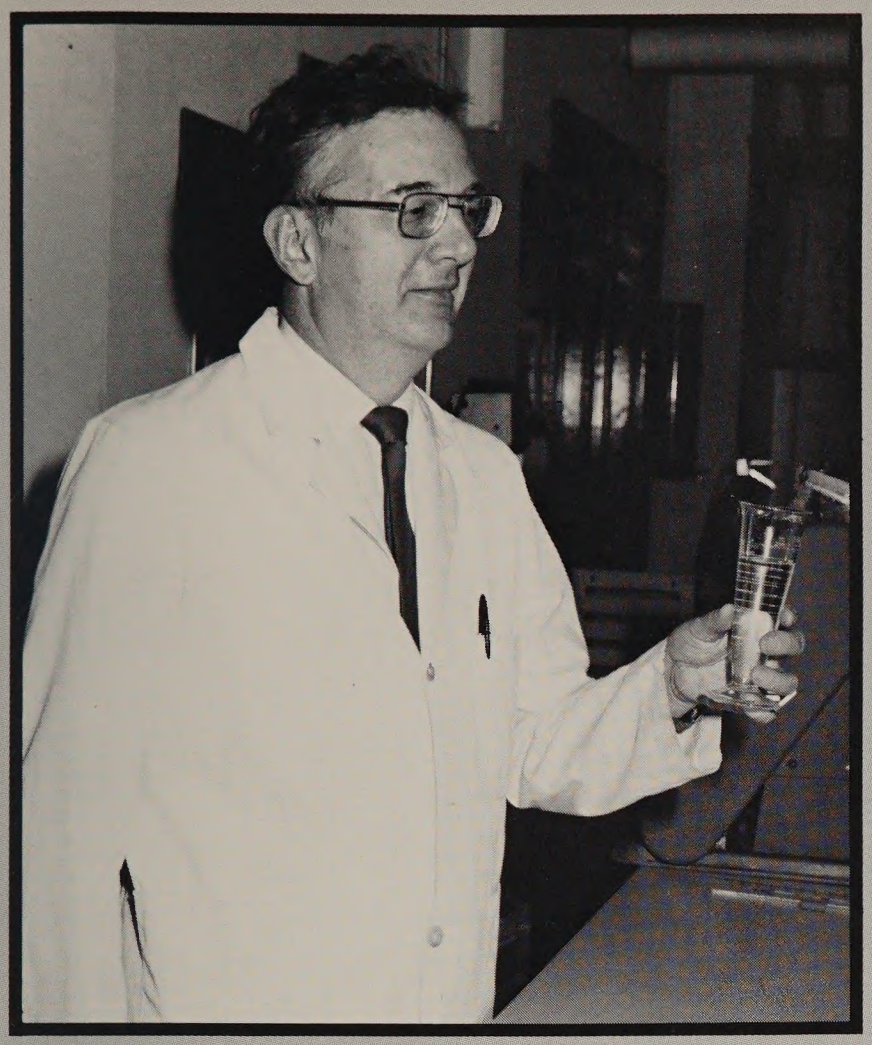
The dark side of us emerges from within . . .



. . . conjuring demons, witchery and goblins.

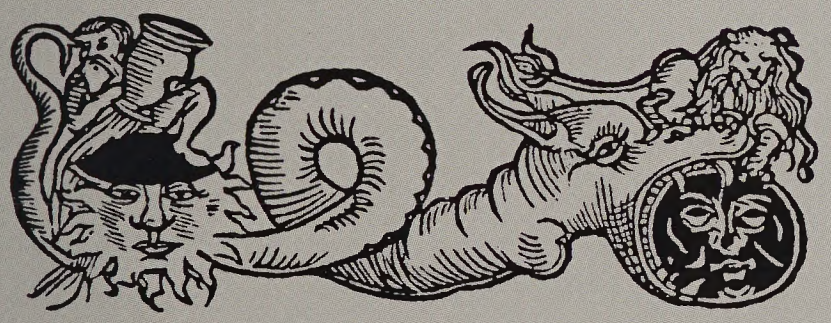


And that's enough to scare anybody!



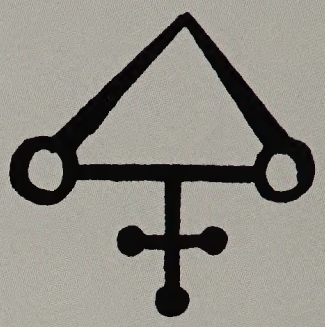
In the laboratory we'll whip up some wild concoctions.

Guaranteed to render us completely out of it . . .

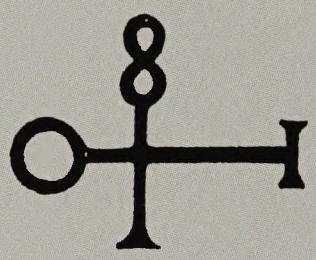


. . . or turn us into, well God only knows!

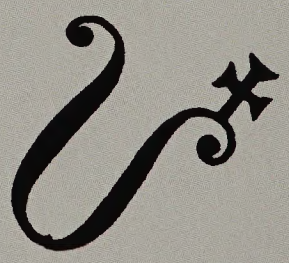
Perhaps we'll turn into ferocious, wild animals . . .



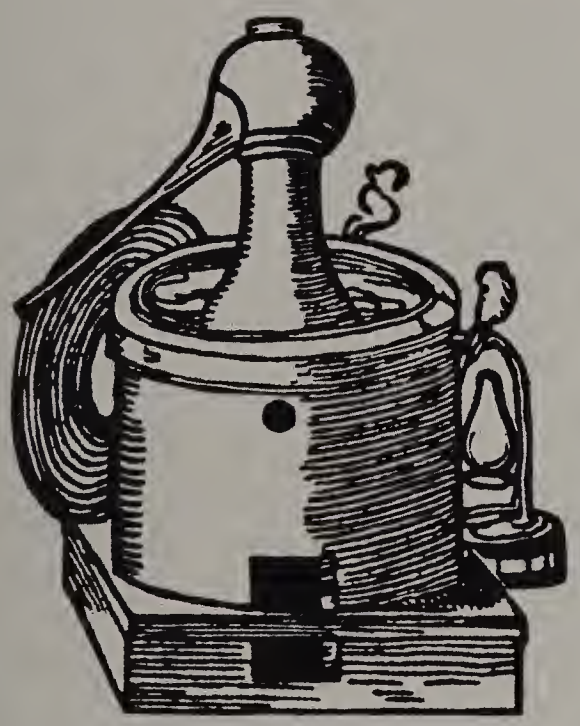
. . . or stark raving lunatics . . .



. . . or maybe we'll just float away to never-never land.



Fortunately, commercial preparations of such caliber are available.



Or, for do-it-yourselfers, there's the HAL-9000 home model . . .

Guaranteed to put a smile on everyone's face.

If we finally decide to use our brains, we might come up with something really creative.

Maybe we could change our form at will . . .

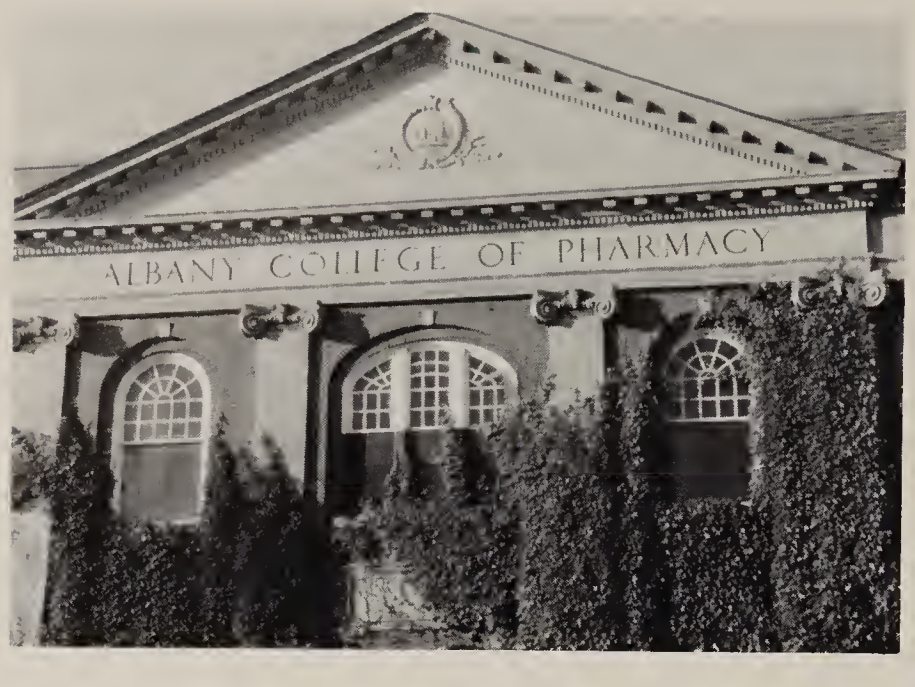
. . . and make oursélves incredibly handsome . . .

. . . or even come up with a love potion.

MAGIC & MYSTIC

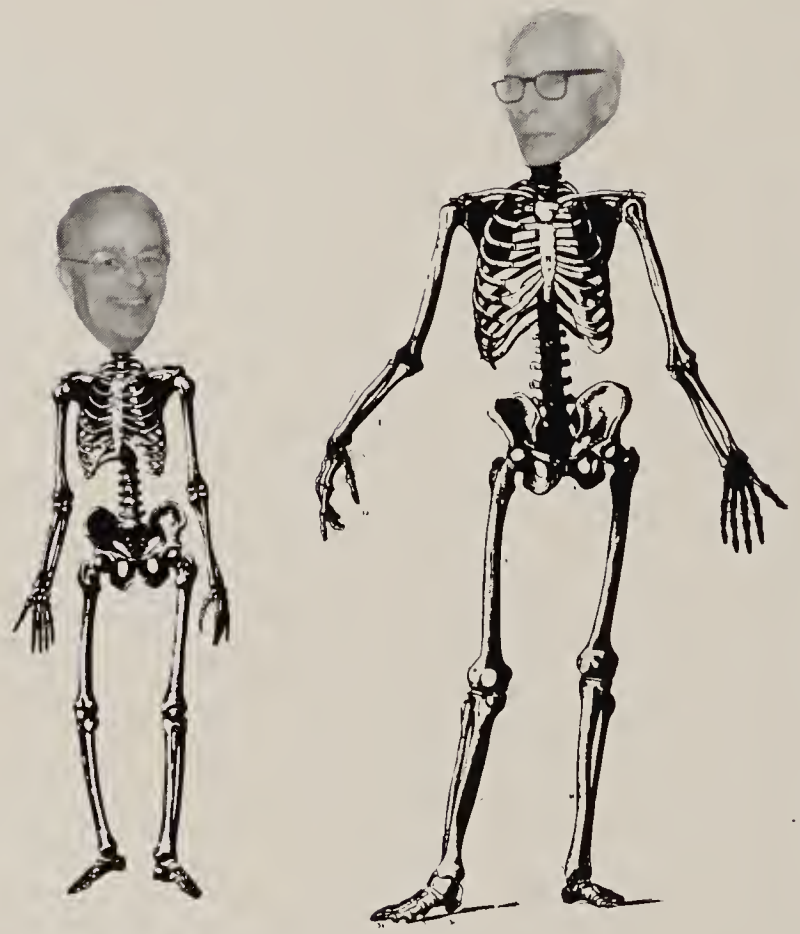
But as we dream away the countless years of our ancestry, let us not forget the magic that five years has brought us, nor the mystic that is yet to come.

Life at



Our home away from home.

We have the most modern, state of the art facilities.



You'll meet our young, energetic staff!

We learn to maintain a professional decorum . . .

. . . and proper attire is stressed.

Labs are a whiz!

A.C.P.

You'll study hard . . .

. . . and attend all your classes.

You'll learn the effects of drugs . . .

. . . and various routes of administration.

On your own, you'll learn how to cook gourmet feasts for yourself.

Student-faculty rapport is outstanding

Dedication

The class of 1985 proudly dedicates this yearbook to a woman who has truly given more to this world than she has taken from it.

Ann White became the first director of financial aid when she came here five years ago. Until then, the job of handling federal and state money allocated to students was that of the dean and his assistants. With her new position, Ann also brought to ACP for the first time in its history, campus based aid, a long overdue need. We, the class of 1985, are the first class to graduate who have had five full years of campus based aid, thanks to her efforts.

Presently working on her Masters in Student Personnel, Ann has given much more than just the campus based aid to ACP. She has openly given her ears and her heart to the students here. In her quiet, understanding way, she has opened doors for needy students, not only financially, but also by being an advisor and a friend.

If more people were like Ann White, with a sweet disposition, with a cheery attitude, with a warm heart, and with a friendly smile, the world would certainly be a brighter place to live in.

We thank you, Ann, for all that you've done for us, and for those before us . . .

EXTRACTUM CANNABIS

Extract of Cannabis

Ext. Cannab.—Extractum Cannabis indicæ P.I.

Prepare an extract by percolating 1000 Gm. of cannabis, in moderately coarse powder, using alcohol as the menstruum. Macerate the drug during forty-eight hours and then percolate it at a moderate rate until the drug is exhausted. Evaporate the percolate to a pilular consistence at a temperature not exceeding 70° C., and mix the mass thoroughly.

AVERAGE DOSE—Metric, 0.015 Gm.—Apothecaries, ¼ grain.

The Dean's Message

Class of 1985. This yearbook, put together by the hard work of your classmates, will be a continual source of memories of ACP. I suspect, that you like most of us, will find the memories of your college days becoming more and more cherished as the years go by. As you embark on your new careers and experience the drastic lifestyle changes that inevitably follow college graduation, don't forget that ACP is not for college days alone. I wish all of you the best.

A Class History

First Year

What a bunch of naive Freshmen. Time to adapt to Ralph's, classes, quarterlies, and all the crap associated with being away from home (thank god). Dr. Flynn rambles on about bananas, while Larry puts things in overdrive. Who actually cares about Galbraith? Not us, we're to busy working on our speech that's due next period. Did anybody notice that this place looks just like high school? And what the heck is the Dean doing with a tube of Preparation H?

MARIMAR

Second Year

A step in the right direction. If we didn't act like such babies, maybe we'd be able to learn something useful about Physics (but then again, maybe we would'nt). We did manage to learn what all the German girls say, but that's not mechanistically applicable. Who's that Richard Dogbreath character, and what did he say about green M&M's?

Third Year

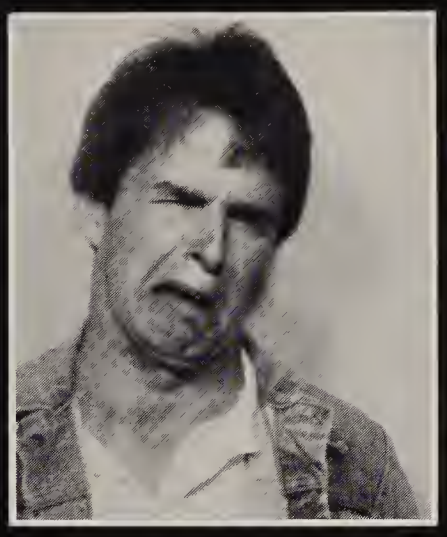
My how time flies when you're having fun. Finally we get to learn something about Pharmacy! Pharm calc separates the men from the boys, while ol' Chuck does his best to really stick it to us. Between the mouthwash and the gwicewyl gwaiocowate taste tests, it's a wonder any of us have any taste buds left at all. And all those transfers! Where did they all come from anyway?

Fourth Year

So much for having a good time at school . . . they want us to work this year! What the hell, after a full summer of selling drugs to sick people, why not teach us how the damned things work. Dr. Bob does his best to clue us in on how these little gems are going to make us rich, while Don Christy breaks all land speed records for lecturing. If it were'nt for the class trip, we'd all be insane. Next stop Willoughby!

Fifth Year

Finally! Now that we're here on the top of the heap there's no turning back. Isn't that Battaglia I saw in lecture the other day? These 8:15 classes with the little guy have got to go, and between all the readings required for Theraputics, who's got time to get the big picture? You mean that you were stupid enough to do your extern with Jack? Thank god at least Dr. Verderame knows how to say farewell properly.



Notable

Are you telling me I'm not "half-way" there?

Yes, of course I still respect you . . .

Now why the hell do we need to learn this?

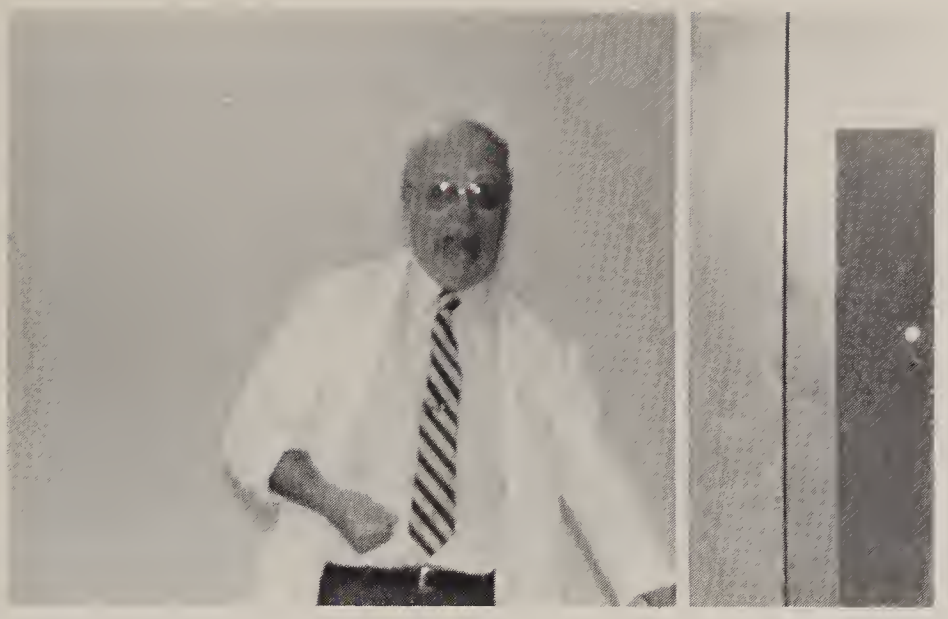
Mike, I think they're towing your car.

Sorry Dean, I should've warned you I had beans for lunch.

I didn't touch her, I swear!

Quotables

I love it when you talk dirty.



This machine just ate my finger!

You say that again and I'll stick this pretzel up your nose.

It's not easy being a swinging sex god.

The paperwork's the worst part of any job.

I've got to stop working so hard.

Editor

(ed′ə-tər) n. 1. One who revises, corrects, or arranges the contents and styles of literary, artistic, or musical work of others for public presentation. 2. One who directs or supervises the expressive policies or the preparation of a publication. 3. One silly enough to undertake the countless hours of work associated with the yearbook.

My dear friends and classmates, I sincerely hope that you've found the contents of this little play on history to your liking, and maybe I've even shown you that there really is a little alchemist in all of us. Perhaps our inner abilities to help our fellow man get through life more easily, while maintaining our own sanity, may be the sole testimony of the talents we harbor. In time, these talents will be allowed to blossom and develop more fully. Maybe it'll be then that we pick up this book and say, "What a silly kid I was back in school, but boy did I have a good time." They were right when they said that school was for learning. We learned here not only about the world, and the practice of Pharmacy, but about ourselves and others.

I would like to thank those few others that took the time to help me in this endeavor; your efforts are remembered and appreciated. Thanks to Lisa Hance, Laura Monroe, Mike Clarke, Elyhia Perez, and Mike Donohue. A special thanks to Deb Ingalls, Marg Bianchetti, Dorothy D'Ercole, and to my constant help and inspiration, Dot Rogers. Thank you all and thank you ACP.
